Perched on a jungle-clad hillside, Casa Ipari blurs the line between architecture and nature. Thoughtfully stepped into the terrain, the home unfolds across multiple levels, with the heart of the residence on the main floor: a grand palapa for open-air living, dining, and gathering, all flowing seamlessly to the infinity-edge pool and panoramic jungle views.

The stratified layout ensures total privacy. While the access level invites gathering, the lower levels house guest suites and a dedicated wellness area, creating independent microclimates of peace on every floor.
